The New Gas Works,

The consumers of Gas in the Village will be pleased to learn that the Old Gas House, upon which we have so long relied, and have been so often disappointed, has been taken down at last and a new one has sprung up, upon the banks of the meandering Aldis' brook. A new Street, christened Lasselle, by one of our enterprising citizens, has been opened about midway between Lake and Jail Streets, running west from the Railroad Company's grounds to Elm Street in the "Western Reserve," and the new buildings of the Gas Company maks the spot, out there is less of outside show and better Gas. The main building is 30 x 58 feet, built of brick and contains two furnaces and six retorts of which only three retorts are now used. The furnaces are constructed of fire brick and the retorts are of the same material, impervious to fire. These retorts are tubes about 21 feet in diameter and ten feet in length and pas through the furnace-ovens horizontal-

Westmoreland Cannsl Coal is used for the manufacture of the gas, and is placed in the retorts, which are heated ten times hotter with fire, than Brick Pomeroy is with copperheadism. As the oil in the coal becomes converted into gas by this process, the coal is removed from the retorts to the brick floor of the buil iing, where it becomes cooled, is used for fuel and is finally consumed to ashes, to keep the machine running. The coal for Gas just about keeps pace with coal for fuel and is a great saving over the former method. The gas, as it escapes from each retort passes up through one pipe and down another and becomes submerged in water in the "hydraulic main." The hydraulic main is a horizontal iron cylender lying upon the arches half filled with water. From each pipe emptying into it, the gas pesess through and rises above the water and so escapes through a series of nine perpendicular tubes and receives a ducking at each turn as in the first instance.

The Gas becomes cooled through this process, and in condensing, the sedimen which assumes the nature of tar, drips from the water and finds its way into a receiver outside of the building. It is further purified by passing through lime which is contained in cylenders. and then it leaves for the holder, where it becomes mixed with older gas which increases its value. The holder is a circular pit, built with brick and cement and is filled with water. Over this is extending dowr to the bottom of the pit space between the cover and the water, and as the volume of the gas increases the cover rises, and as it is consumed through a 10ther pipe which rises above the water, the cover descends in the

THE LEGISLATURE. - The Vermont Legislature will meet this year on Thursday the 8th of October, or in little more than two weeks. At present we see not why the Legislature cannot meet for a brief business session, and adjourn soon enough to help lighten the burden of expenses to the State. It is true that notices of a number of projects have been given, but few of them, we apprehend, are expected to occupy much time in the tegislature.

As to the organization of the House, we observe in several parts of the State expressions in favor of the election of the Hon, Geo. W. Grandey of Vergennes, as speaker. We heartily endorse this suggestion. We endorse it placed a cover of sheet iron, with a rim for the reason of the peculiar fitness of Mr. Grandey for that position. He has and inside of it. EARTHQUAKES IN THE PAST.—Fearful as the consequences of the great earthquake in South America, on the 13th olt., have been, history tells of yet more appalling similar events. I was not able to turn over in bed without help, and it was thought by all my friends that I never should recover. All medical treatment in een without effect. The disease was compliated by a scrofulous affection. I tried every emedy, used the water of Mineral Springs dsewhere without avail. The Missisquoi Spring water was tried by me in 1866, and I coninued its use for several months, till I entirely ecovered and am now in better health than ever before. Now, reader, self abuse, venereal diseases Now, reader, sen abuse, venereal diseases bedly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a wealness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect severing, successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and and pleasant in the company of cades, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them.
